CONNECTICUT ASSOCIATION OF PHOTOGRAPHERS (CAP)

Submitted by: Bert Schmitz

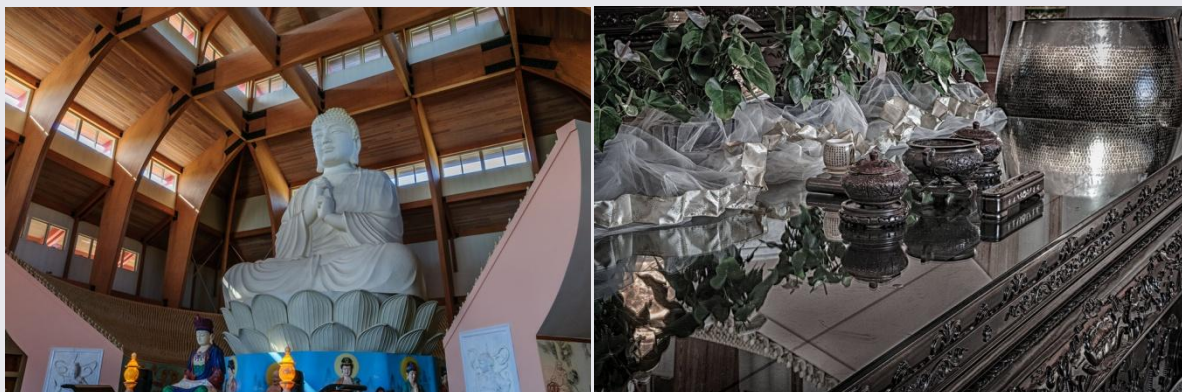

On 13 October, I went on a one day photography trip with CAP, to the Croton Dam and the Chuang Yen Monastery, both in New York State.

The Connecticut Association of Photographers (CAP) is a state-wide organization for amateur photographers with both camera clubs and individuals as members. CAP has two meetings per year, one in the spring (June) and one in the fall (November). These meetings usually include dinner and a program, though other events may be substituted for one or both dinner meetings. CAP also offer field trips throughout the year. Some are one-day while others are for the weekend. They also publish to a blog several times a year where they announce what's happening. CAP also sponsors competitions for members and member clubs. CAP posts information on its website and sends out e-mails as needed to inform the membership of upcoming events.

The membership dues are $8.00 per year and include all e-mail notifications and any event mailings that may be needed. To join CAP, go to <http://capinct.blogspot.com/p/about-us.html>. From their website you can also access their blog to see some past and upcoming events.
